

Progress and Technogy are moving forward. Why throw up road blocks to add expense and time to give people what they want. Satelllite Radio cost the users on average $10 per month if the local stations are doing such a great job why are users willing to pay the toll for satelllite service? I see the day in the not to distance future when the satelllite service could tie in the Nav system and reroute traffic around delays. This would save taxpayers $ in road construction cost if different routes were known.
